

Marc Reid

Marc completed his Masters in Chemistry at the University of Strathclyde in 2011. In 2015, he completed his Carnegie Trust-sponsored PhD in Chemistry at Strathclyde. From 2015-16, Marc was a postdoctoral research associate at the University of Edinburgh. During that time, he was inducted into the SciFinder Future Leaders in Chemistry programme.

In 2016, Marc won the prestigious Leverhulme Trust Early Career Fellowship and re-joined the Department of Pure & Applied Chemistry at Strathclyde from 2017-20. This position was supported by GlaxoSmithKline, and he was thus the first Strathclyde-GSK Early Career Academic. In 2018, Marc was selected to participate in the Scottish Crucible leadership program, the Merck Innovation Cup, and was part of the Converge Challenge Entrepreneurship Competition Top 30. In 2020, Marc became a CFACT-supported Research Fellow and then Lecturer for Innovation in Education at the University of Bristol.

Most recently, Marc was awarded a UKRI Future Leaders Fellowship, joining the Department of Pure & Applied Chemistry at Strathclyde in 2021.

He holds visiting positions at the University of Bristol and the Hunter Centre for Entrepreneurship at the University of Strathclyde. In 2021, Marc completed Seth Godin's altMBA.

Outside academia, Marc is the founder of the safety culture and accident readiness company Pre-Site Safety and author of the book You Are \(Not\) A Fraud: A Scientist's Guide to the Imposter Phenomenon.

His interests include physical organic chemistry, computer vision, virtual reality, process safety, and the psychology of the Imposter Phenomenon.
