

Cayetana Zarate, Ph.D.

Cayetana Zarate received her B.Sc. (Hons.) in Chemistry from the University of Valladolid (Spain) in 2012 and her Ph.D. (Hons.) in 2017 from the Institute of Chemical Research of Catalonia (ICIQ), where she worked in the group of Prof. Ruben Martin. As a postdoctoral fellow in the group of Prof. Paul J. Chirik at Princeton University (2017-2019), Cayetana developed catalysts for radiolabeling of pharmaceuticals in collaboration with Merck & Co. Then, she joined the Merck Discovery Process Chemistry group in Boston (2019-21) and since 2021, she has been working as a Process Chemist at Janssen in Schaffhausen (Switzerland).